About Us

Located in the heart of historic Junction City, the C.L. Hoover Opera House is more than a building—it's the cultural heartbeat of our community. Originally opened in 1882 and lovingly restored to its former glory, our Opera House blends historic charm with modern amenities to host live theater, concerts, art exhibits, educational programs, and community events.

As a non-profit arts organization, we are dedicated to enriching lives through the performing arts, providing a space where creativity thrives and memories are made.

Your support ensures that the lights continue to shine, the curtains continue to rise, and the arts remain accessible to all.

Together, we can keep the magic of the arts alive for generations to come.

Thank You

From all of us at the C.L. Hoover Opera House, thank you for opening your heart to the arts. Your support means more than words can express. It helps us keep the curtain rising, the music playing, and the stories unfolding on stage. It also allows us to preserve our beloved historic venue—a cornerstone of Junction City's cultural identity.

More importantly, your partnership brings people together—creating shared moments, lasting memories, and a deeper sense of connection in our community.

With you by our side, the spirit of the arts continues to thrive.
